Contents
Editorial Board
Information for Contributors

Special Edition: A Tribute to Jeanne Bamberger

Volume 20
January 2012

Editorial
Curiosity, Creativity and Cognition: A Window Into Jeanne Bamberger’s Work
Gena R. Greher and S. Alex Ruthmann, guest editors
University of Massachusetts Lowell

Feature Articles
Tribute to Jeanne Bamberger: Pre-eminent Student of Musical Development and Cognition in Our Time
Howard Gardner
Harvard University

On Chunking, Simples and Paradoxes: Why Jeanne Bamberger’s Research Matters
Gena R. Greher and S. Alex Ruthmann
University of Massachusetts Lowell

Interactive Performance Software in Music Education Research: As Inspired by the Work of Jeanne Bamberger
Andrew Brown
Griffith University, Brisbane, Australia

Building and Composing Upon Musical Knowledge
Kimberly Lansinger Ankney
Northwestern University

Composing Pieces for Peace: Using Impromptu to Build Cross-Cultural Awareness”
Michael P. Downton
Indiana University
Kylie A. Peppler
Indiana University
Adena Portowitz
Bar-Ilan University, Ramat Gan, Israel
Jeanne Bamberger
University of California, Berkeley
Eric Lindsay
Indiana University

Reminiscence on Studying with Jeanne Bamberger
Jessica Krash
George Washington University

Jean Bamberger – Vignettes from 1974-1976
Joyce Kouffman
Music Educator
Director, Point Reyes Music Center

Representations of Music – Neural Foundations and Mental Processes 1905
Wilfred Gruhn
University of Music, Freiburg, Germany

Channeling Bamberger: An Unorthodox Appreciation of Jeanne Bamberger’s Work on Musical Development and Musical Understanding
Craig Graci
State University of New York at Oswego

About Time: Strategies of Performance Revealed in Graphs
Elaine Chew
Queen Mary, University of London

Learning in Time
Christopher F. Hasty
Harvard University

Do you hear what I hear? Musical Maps and Felt Pathways of Musical Understanding
Deborah V. Blair
Oakland University

Historical Reprint
Developing Musical Structures: Going Beyond the Simples
Jeanne Bamberger
Reprinted with permission.